

Addiction Psychology Opportunities in pre-doctoral Internship Programs

The Society of Addiction Psychology developed this list with the goal of providing a quick reference for students seeking a pre-doctoral internship that includes addiction training. Note that this is not intended to be a comprehensive list, and instead, represents those programs that provided identifiable information during data collection from Summer 2021. We intend to update the below information yearly, adding, deleting, and updating programs as necessary. Questions, concerns, or updates to programmatic information should be directed to Dr. Meagan M. Carr meagan.carr@yale.edu

Table 1 includes a quick view of all programs. Users may click on each program to view additional information, such as available settings, experiences, supervision models, and didactic trainings. The direct link to the program information in the APPIC directory is also listed for ease of reference. The APPIC directory and program websites should always be considered the most up-to-date source of information.
