

School Psychology Faculty Position Rutgers University for Fall, 2020

The Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology (GSAPP) at Rutgers University–New Brunswick invites applications for a full-time, open-rank tenured or tenure track faculty position. Successful applicants will demonstrate the ability to conduct research, supervise graduate student research and/or field-based experiences, and teach graduate courses in an APA-accredited School Psychology Program. The minimum qualifications to be considered for this position include a Ph.D. in School Psychology, Clinical Psychology, Counseling Psychology, or enrollment in an APA-accredited Ph.D. program at the time of application. It is preferable that the applicant is licensed or license-eligible as a psychologist.

We seek applicants who have a record of demonstrated excellence in research consistent with their career stage (e.g., refereed journal articles, book chapters), a record of or strong potential for procuring external funding, strong methodological skills, and a coherent, programmatic line of research. Although specific areas of research and teaching specialization are open, strong preference will be given to applicants with a commitment to reducing opportunity gaps in schools, enhancing access to effective services and/or improving outcomes for diverse children and families. We encourage applications from individuals who will add to the diversity of our faculty.

We are a community of scholars devoted to scholarly excellence and creating a learning and research environment that seeks diverse perspectives and fosters inclusion and equity. The School Psychology faculty strongly support faculty development/mentorship and excellence. Rutgers University is situated conveniently between Philadelphia and New York City, offering rich resources for housing, school systems, cultural events, and entertainment.

Review of applications begins immediately and continues until the position is filled. Please send a Curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, three representative publications, and statements that include: (1) current research accomplishments and plans for future scholarship, (2) teaching experience and approach, and (3) personal contributions to foster an environment of equity and inclusion for faculty, staff, and students from diverse backgrounds.

To apply, please upload materials through <https://jobs.rutgers.edu/postings/90109>. Please direct questions to Anne Gregory, Chair, Search and Screen Committee, Dept. of School Psychology, Graduate School of Applied and Professional Psychology, Rutgers University, 152 Frelinghuysen Road, Piscataway NJ 08854; annegreg@gsapp.rutgers.edu. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.